D-Safavid Reverie

SC160

DIMONAH imagined this decor, entirely from Safavid miniatures, mostly of the 17th Century. There are many styles in Persian miniatures but this one shines due to the elegant gaits and costumes of its characters. Here are many recognisable folk tales for the knowing but just Oriental colour and whimsy for the decorator. The painting is very true to the originals and the Asian features are due to the Turkic origin of the dynasty and nobles at the time. The composition, however, is entirely the work of Dimonah, setting the characters in backgrounds of her choice, so as to give us a Persian fresco.

D-Safavid Reverie sc160

DIMONAH created this Decor after falling in love with the elegance and style of Safavid miniatures from the 17th Century. There are many styles and periods in Persian miniature painting, but the Safavid period stands out for its central Asian and Chinese influence. Our own studio painting is very true to the originals, and the Asian features due to the Turkic origin of the dynasty and nobles at the time are perfectly captured. In the composition of this Decor and the color palette, Dimonah tried to keep the recurring structure in all the miniatures as close to its roots as possible, in a Decor that unrolled into this fantasy Scenic of Safavid Persia.
